Structured, chic, simple, sophisticated, in the MAUS and universal staples of white, black and monsoon colours of pale pink, pale blue, navy blue, grey and nude.

Maus is predominantly a line of separates with a strong focus on white shirts and experimentation in cuts and surprises, such as the organza backed shirt which seems nothing but a straight shirt from the front but reveals all when reversed.

The predominant fabric in this collection is a high quality poplin, organza for sheer detailing, MAUS parachute fabric and some simple viscose and polyester fabrics. The choice of fabric plays a big role in the simple cuts to allow for the correct fall and drape in these mostly structured outfits.

The monsoon collection plays between an overtly feminine look to an androgynous one.
